

Corn Belt Power Installs Battery Storage

Corn Belt Power Cooperative recently installed a battery energy storage system in their service area in a trial project designed to evaluate the emerging technology.

Basin Electric Power Cooperative, which provides power to electric co-ops across the Midwest including Corn Belt Power, introduced a member-owned Trial Battery Rate into its rate book in 2019. The rate allocates up to 150 kilowatts per distribution cooperative.

Corn Belt Power, collaborated with its membership, which includes Calhoun County Electric Cooperative, to develop a plan that allowed each member-cooperative to pool its individual allocation and create one large battery energy storage system. This system is a 1.425 megawatt Tesla® Megapack which Corn Belt Power integrated into the Hampton Substation.

Total project cost is near $3.5 million, which includes the battery storage system, engineering, site preparation and labor. The stored power from the battery will allow Corn Belt Power to avoid purchasing 1.425 megawatts of power during peak usage times for up to six hours. This is enough energy to power roughly 145 homes for six hours at a time.

Once the battery's energy is depleted, it will recharge during off-peak times in preparation for its next disbursement.

"We want to learn more about battery technology, from the process of procuring and installing the batteries to operation and how the batteries can benefit Calhoun County Electric Cooperative and Corn Belt Power," said Jacob Olberding, vice president, power supply, Corn Belt Power. "We will also use the battery project as a load management resource. By doing so, we hope the batteries pay for themselves in 12 years."

Corn Belt Power plans to share ongoing performance data with Calhoun County Electric Cooperative and the rest of its membership to highlight the battery's ability to reduce member-cooperative power costs. This sharing of operational information will provide the membership with education and insights to support future use of battery storage technology.

Momentum is Building Conference for Contractors & Builders

Iowa-based builders and contractors are invited to learn about energy efficiency technologies at the 2023 Momentum is Building (MIB) Conference, scheduled for Feb. 16 and 17, 2023 at The Meadows Events Center in Altoona, IA.

A major draw for electricians, plumbers, and HVAC professionals is the opportunity to earn CEU credits at the conference. MIB attendees can also network with industry professionals, hear from recognized energy efficiency and building trades experts and gain insight into trending technologies. Registration is open at www.MomentumIsBuilding.com.

Sponsored and organized by the Iowa Cooperatives for Energy Efficiency (ICEE), the annual Momentum is Building Conference also connects Iowa's construction industry with the local services and resources available from Iowa-based electric cooperatives, who serve nearly 650,000 Iowans across 99 counties.

Tolu Omotoso, director of energy solutions at the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association (NRECA) will kick off the conference by covering the evolving relationship between utilities and their members and how to leverage member-owned smart devices in the home for grid services.

Other topics include sessions on promoting the value of home certifications and how to prepare contractors for large, new Federal home improvement subsidies to come online as well as employee management best practices for small businesses. The conference will close with motivational speaker, author, and 5-time "National Coach of the Year", Jim Miller who will share the value of "Going the Extra Mile". Miller's message to attendees will be, "If it's Important to your success, 'Do It Anyway'".
